

Manny Blas is currently Vice-President of Ayala Land Inc., and is assigned as Managing Director of Bonifacio Foundation Inc.

Manny's current project is to build the first world class science museum in the country, to be called The Mind Museum, and will be located in Bonifacio Global City. It is a P 1 billion project and he is now in the middle of a major fundraising campaign to fund the construction of the museum.

Manny's background is in Marketing and General Management with his corporate career culminating in his assignment as Regional President of Sara Lee for Southeast Asia. After 23 years, he retired from corporate life in 2000 to complete a Masteral Degree in Theology and to devote his, and his wife's, time in full time church ministry work, particularly in working with the youth, and in teaching theology in De La Salle University in Dasmarias. In 2007, he decided to go back to corporate life, but with the intent of continuing his passion for education. Thus, Manny considers his present project to build The Mind Museum as the best of both worlds in the corporate and educational fields.
